

HELP KEEP LOCAL JOURNALISM ALIVE

The COVID-19 pandemic makes it clearer than ever why we rely on quality local journalism to provide the information we need, whether it is keeping our families protected or knowing what our government and business leaders are doing during the crisis.

Communities without newspapers actually end up paying more in taxes, according to a report from National Public Radio. Without watchdog journalism, lending institutions worry that governments are not as accountable to the public and in some cases increase borrowing costs. Cities, school districts and towns borrow for big ticket items and those interest rates on loans can add up.

Listen to NPR's "Starving The Watchdogs" on the Hidden Brain podcast, which explains this:

<https://podcasts.apple.com/us/podcast/hidden-brain/id1028908750?i=1000472831223>

Right now, like every business in the area, we're struggling. We need support from you, our viewers and readers, to keep our newspapers and VillageSoup sites going.

You can help keep professional and investigative journalism alive by getting a subscription today. Visit us at knox.villagesoup.com or waldo.villagesoup.com and click on Join in the upper right hand corner or call us at 207-594-4401 to get a subscription today for yourself or a friend.

You can also help support newsgathering by contributing today at <https://knox.villagesoup.com/center/donate> or

<https://waldo.villagesoup.com/center/donate>

Call 207.594.4401 w/ Credit Card

Or Mail Your contribution to:

Courier Publishing LLC

PO Box 1076

Camden, ME 04843

On the Grad Tab

Graduation Keepsake Edition is coming soon!

Celebrate local graduating high school seniors this year with our Graduation Keepsake Edition.

These students cannot have a normal graduation this year, but we have not forgotten them.

Every Midcoast graduate will be featured in this special edition.

This a must have memory for you and your family